Memorial Services Saturday

Remembrance Day was observed Saturday in Drayton Valley with a parade from the Legion Hall to the Cardium Theatre where services of remembrance were conducted indoors.

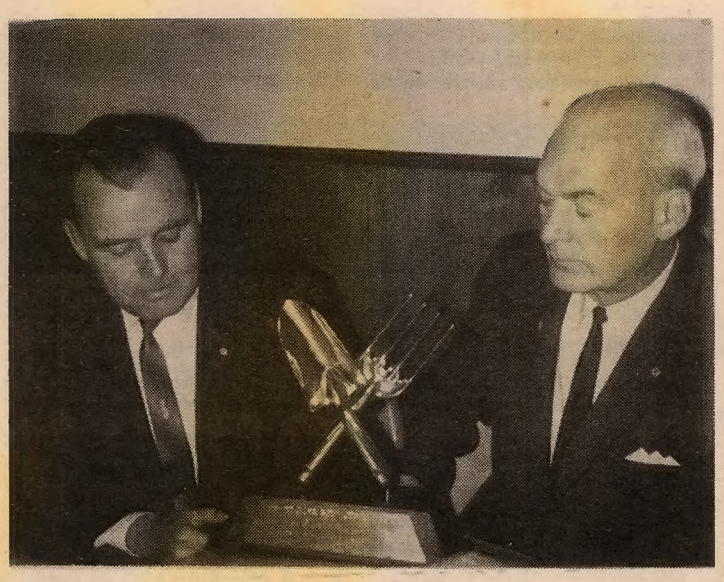
Although an overnight snowfall had covered the ground, the weather was an improvement over the previous year, and the parade marched to the theatre under sunny skies and moderate temperature.

Led by red-coated RCMP officers, the parade was made up of the Legion Color Party, Legion and Veterans, Legion Auxiliary, Air Cadets, Scouts, Cubs, Rangers, Guides and Brownies.

Father E. Lynch and Rev. G.E. Ingram took part in the service in the theatre. Wreathes were laid by Mrs. E. Waugh for the mothers, Mayor Robert Findlay for the Town of Drayton Valley and Mr. W. Peters for the Government of Alberta.

Coffee and donuts were served prior to the parade and the day ended for members of the Legion and Auxiliary with a social evening in the hall.

Led by members of the RCMP and the Legion Color Party the Remembrance Day parade is shown lined up in front of the Legion Hall prior to the march to the Cardium Theatre for memorial services.



Fred Raven (right) president of the Drayton Valley Rotary Club and past president Jack Bright show the trophy designed by the club for presentation to Jesse Hughes of Kelowna in appreciation of his many gifts of flowers to people in Western Canada.

Rotary Expresses Appreciation to Kelowna Resident

The Drayton Valley Rotary Club recently sent a specially designed trophy to Mr. J. W. (Jesse) Hughes in appreciation of the flowers he sends to the club for distribution to local shut ins.

Mr. Hughes of Kelowna, B.C. made his first shipment under the Flowers for the Living project, to the Rotary Club of Calgary in 1947. Since that time the project has grown each year until 1967 when a total of 215,000 flowers were sent to 48 Rotary Clubs, 1 Commercial Travelers Club and one Kinsman Club. Total flowers distributed to date is 2,400,000.

.Mr. Hughe's project of Flowers for the Living is believed to be unique in the world. Flowers are shipped, four times a year, to the distributing clubs without cost and bring untold pleasure to aged, and shut in people throughout Western Canada. It is estimated that the annual cost of these flowers, at wholesale prices, would be about $7000 to $8000.

Mr. Hughes, who's residence is at "Lake Side" eight miles south of Kelowna, is 80 years of age and spent two and a half months in hospital last winter with a broken hip suffered in a fall. He has made remarkable recovery from this injury and is again active in his orchard where his main crops are grapes and flowers as well as other fruits and vegetables. He personally delivers all flowers to the express office for shipment.

Members of the Drayton Valley Rotary Club, like other distributing clubs and flower recipients, have, from time to time, paid a visit to "J.W." at Lake Side when on holidays in B.C. A hearty welcome awaits those that call.

Members of the Drayton Valley Rotary Club are very grateful to Mr. Hughes for the flowers that he sends to Drayton Valley each year and the opportunity it gives them to bring joy into the lives of shut-ins.

The Rotary Club will welcome the names of persons who are aged, infirm or shut in to which flowers could be delivered.

Lodgepole News

Mrs. Charlotte Kay

The Lodgepole U.C.W. held their final meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Hilda Lindsay. It was with a great deal of regret, that the members moved for dissolution.

The U.C.W. was organized in 1959 and has sponsored many worth-while projects in the community, particularly the Sunday School and children's camps.

We welcome to our midst, Mr. and Mrs. Beath and their children. Mr. Beath has recently arrived to take over the Goliad #7 plant.

Preparations for winter sports are going ahead. It is hoped to have curling in operation this coming week. The skating rink is ready for flooding. Many thanks to those who helped with these projects.

Evansburg Kinsmen Plan Peanut Drive

Centennial year isn't over yet, and in the short time there is left of it, the Kinsmen of this village, who are spear-heading the Centennial Arena project, hope to see the largest part of the work done. To date, the Kinsmen and Kinettes have contributed approximately $2500 toward the project, in addition to many hours spent in planning and organizing various Centennial and-fund raising functions.

At the present time these two groups are very busy organizing and preparing for the annual Kinsmen Peanut Drive which will take place on Thursday, November 23rd. A great help to the men making the peanut sales is a porch light left on to show that they are very welcome to your home.

Their second project being presently planned is the annual Senior Citizen's Christmas Supper. This year, the supper will take place on December 6th and as usual, in the Legion Hall. Invitations to all the senior citizens will be mailed in the near future. To the Kinsmen and Kinettes this is one of their most rewarding projects and has been a very successful and enjoyable affair for those taking part in past years.

A third project being undertaken by this busy organization is a pool in the Grey Cup game which this year is being played on Saturday, December 2nd. Tickets on the pool are available from any Kinsmen in the village.

Among other projects supported by the Kinsmen are the children's playground situated in Kinsmen park and they are also sponsors of the 1st Pembina Valley Cub and Scout groups.

"Help the Kinsmen Help the Kids" is their motto and their request for your support in the good work they are doing in the community may be shown when you leave that porch light on on Thursday, the 23rd "Peanut Night".

ANNUAL TEA

The United Church Women will hold their annual fall tea and bazaar in the Canadian Legion Hall from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, November 25th.

The United Church Women urge you to attend and then attend the Anglican Church Supper to be held in the Elk's Hall later the same day.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY MEETING

A meeting of the Ladies Hospital Auxiliary was held last Thursday. Owing to illness and other commitments several members were unable to attend. We were delighted to welcome another new member Mrs. Shirley Willis.

Raffle tickets are now on sale from members for the Candy Wreath which will be on display shortly in the town.

Plans were made for a Christmas Bake Sale to be held during the second week in December, the exact date to be announced later. The draw for the raffle will be made at the Bake Sale.

It was suggested that on the days the canteen is open at the Hospital (Monday, Wednesday and Friday between two and three o'clock) an announcement should be made over the intercom to notify the patients. This will be done as soon as the intercom is in action again

Three pairs of drapes were bought to complete the refurnishing of the old wing.

The president reminded us that our next meeting will be our Christmas one; each member to bring a small gift .

Health Hints from THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

CORONARY ARTERY DISEASE

Coronary artery disease is hardening of the arteries which supply the muscles of the heart and hence among the most important arteries in the body. Many suggestions have been made to prevent it, but none is foolproof, says The Canadian Medical Association.

We have known for a long time that coronary artery disease is more common in people who are very much overweight--obese. As a result there has been great interest in the matter of diet; whether the eating of certain foods might cause and aggravate coronary disease, and whether as it appears, a high fat diet makes a person more likely to become a victim.

During the past ten years there has been more medical interest about factors which have nothing to do with diet. Extensive studies on the smoking of cigarettes seem to indicate that "the habit" is a very important factor. The person who has had coronary disease can reduce the risk of further trouble by stopping smoking.

The C.M.A. reports that studies are being made of the relationship between exercise, or the lack of it, and coronary artery disease. It is believed that people who take regular exercise, or through their jobs keep physically fit, are less likely to have coronary artery disease. It is also felt that a person who has had a coronary attack might be less likely to have further trouble if he participates in a carefully planned program of exercise.

Beef Club Reorganized

A reorganizational meeting of the Drayton Valley 4-H Beef Club was held in the Anglican Church Parish Hall on October 10th.

The new executive is as follows: Jack Tucker, President; Sandra Guze, Vice-President; Cindy Sharkey, Secretary; Judy Romanchuk, Treasurer; Valorie Guyon, Club Reporter; Otto Guze, Club Leader; Mrs. Guyon and Mr. Thomas, Adult Committee. Thanks to Mr. Elliot who said he would help us.

The regular meeting will be held as usual the first Tuesday of every month at 7:30.

On November 7th the regular meeting of the Drayton Valley 4-H Beef Club was held with all members present.

Awards night will be held at the next meeting. All parents are invited to come.

Junior leaders and a program committee were elected.

This year the junior leaders are to discuss and display different topics from the 4-H program books.

Any farm boy or girl who may be interested in joining is asked to contact Mr. Guze before November 20th.

The fur trade formed the advancing frontier of European civilization as it swept across the northern half of the continent to the Pacific. Ultimately the fur trade also represented a retreating frontier for the civilization of the Indians, who had more furs than they could use; they eagerly exchanged them for European goods such as guns and metal tools.

The fur trade led to cultural and racial interchange as well as commodity exchange. French traders and coureurs de bois married Indian women along the St. Lawrence River, around the Great Lakes and across the northwest, wherever they were trading. English and Scottish traders were not permanently posted to Canada and did not live away from their posts to the same extent as the French traders. Even so, many of them intermarried with the Indians of the Hudson Bay area, the prairies and the far west. But many of them left their children behind to be raised as Indians. Trading alliances formed and broke among Indian tribes, and between Indians and whites. Wars were fought over the lucrative fur trade as the rivalry grew between English and French, between white and Indian, between the Hudson's Bay Co. and the North-West Co.

The organization of the fur trade reflects this bitter political and corporate competition. It also reflects the harsh living conditions and the high cost of transporting heavy trade goods and supplies up the rivers of the eastern Canadian drainage basins. These problems were conquered with an organization based on tough central authority and fortified outposts. The trading posts aimed to dominate their territories completely. They discouraged the encroachment of settlers on the wilderness, except in areas where the trading posts wanted agricultural support for themselves.

These autocratic outposts strengthened their rule over the wilderness when the two rival fur-trading companies merged, but eventually, slowly and grudgingly they yielded their grip as the fur supply dwindled and the frontiers of heavy settlement moved westward. Industrialization followed, quickened by gold rushes, the advent of steam powered transportation, and the formation of strong central government provided by the Act of Union and Confederation.

The first parachute jump from a plane was made by Albert Berry a captain in the U.S. Army on March 1, 1912 from a distance of 1,500 feet.

The greater the obstacle, the more the glory in overcoming it.

Scrap Metal Business Urged For Municipalities

Assembly-line automobile disposal plants using the latest equipment should be set up in all urban centres in Canada to cope with old cars, industrial and domestic scrap metal, according to a report from the planning board of the Toronto suburb of Scarborough published in Canadian Automotive Trade. The board estimates that 9,600 cars are scrapped each year in the borough.

It is concerned that the situation in New York and Chicago, where more than 20,000 vehicles are abandoned each year on city streets, may spread to metropolitan Toronto. Scarborough controller Karl Malette said that Winnipeg recently decided to start a municipal auto-scrapping scheme. In Toronto, a modern plant might be built by the city and tendered for operation by private enterprise, he thinks.

Lone Guiding Active Branch

Almost everyone knows all about Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, but when Lone Guiding is mentioned, no one is too sure what they are.

In reality, Lone Guides are a branch of Girl Guides of Canada, and consist of girls age 10 to 14 engaged in Girl Guide activities.

Each province has a Lone Branch in Girl Guides with a commissioner and several captains. The girls in the Lone companies are girls who live where there are not active companies of Guides or Rangers, or who live too far from an active Company to attend meetings regularly. They do their Guiding by mail; the Captain sends out a Company letter which is like an illustrated magazine containing various phases of Guiding. She also sends assignments each month for the girls to do.

In Alberta we have four Lone Guide Companies and one Lone Ranger Company. This year we had a Lone Camp for all the Lone Guides and Rangers in the province. This gave the girls an opportunity to meet and have fun together, and learn more of the spirit of Guiding.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information on Lone Guides or Lone Rangers in Alberta may write to: Alberta Council, Girl Guides of Canada, 10215 - 97 Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta.

EVANSBURG

Mrs. M. Bruner, Correspondent

Dull grey November days and dull gray school days were livened up last week when the school children were given an extra holiday in honor of Governor-General Michener's Alberta visit. I well imagine that all the school children enjoyed the unexpected holiday as much as all my boys did.

The district Agricultural Society held their annual banquet and prize awards night in the Wildwood Hall on the 3rd. This annual event was very well attended, (more people attended than had been really hoped for and if the supper was scarce toward the last, the ladies promise that next year there will be plenty), and the films and slides shown were enjoyed by all. Slides of local 4-H projects that had taken place were shown by one of the 4-H leaders, W. Brenenstuhl and films showing 4-H work in the province had been borrowed from the Department of Agriculture.

The Society held their regular monthly meeting in Evansburg this month. Final odds and ends of business were discussed and rounded up as the activities for this season are just about over. The annual meeting and election officers will be held in the Wildwood Hall on December 13th. The ladies have been asked to provide a mid-day meal as well as coffee for breaks when the home planning school is held in Entwistle in December.

The United Church Women inform me that they will hold their annual fall tea and bazaar on Saturday, November 18. The Sunday School United Church Christmas Program has been set to take place on the evening of December 13th this year. The last UCW meeting was held at the Wolff home

Evansburg Junior-High School will be using a substitute teacher in Mr. K. Jensen's place for some time while Mr. Jensen is hospitalized due to back injuries suffered in an auto accident recently. Mr. Jensen is the Physical educational teacher in the school and he will be missed in the classes taking place in the gym. Visiting at the Mazeppa home recently were the Eshpeter family from Swan Hills and Mr. Stecyk from Holden. Mr. Stecyk is Mrs. Mazeppa's father and Mrs. Eshpeter is Mr. Mazeppa's sister.

Construction is proceeding on the Centennial Arena as well as the business premises of Ivan Brown. In spite of the brisk cool weather, the crews are busy pouring cement and progress on the buildings can readily be seen.

On November 6th, I was very fortunate in being able to attend the first evening's program of the Province's 4-H leaders' conference being held at Lake Isle this year. That night the speaker was Mr. Don Hamilton of the Alberta Service Corporation. Mr. Hamilton's talk was on the volunteer leader and was very interesting to all his listeners. As I did not attend the remaining days of the conference, I cannot say what other topics were discussed but am sure they were all most interesting.

In the report of 4-H awards presented recently in the Wildwood Hall one name was omitted by error. Left out was the 1st year beef trophy won by Ted Bruner and donated by Wolff Agencies of Evansburg.

The secret of contentment is knowing how to enjoy what you have, and being able to lose all desire for things beyond your reach.

OILWIVES HOLD FASHION SHOW

The monthly meeting of the Drayton Valley Oilwives was held in the Cardium Room on Monday, November 13th. A delicious Chinese supper was attended by 74 members, 4 guests, and 1 new member.

President Jean Ward gave an account of the Oilwives Convention she attended last month. There was also a report from Fay Shearer and Dot Booker who attended.

Due to lack of interest by the Oilwives the annual curling bonspiel was cancelled.

A delightful evenings entertainment was provided by a fashion show with clothes from MarNel's Ladies Wear and under the direction of Mrs. Mary Kublick and Mrs. Nellis Gorman. The attractive models were: Donna Gawalko, Betty Wronko, Shirley Willis, Kay Fraser, Lorna Farkas, Joanne Thompson, Jeanette Vatter, Barb Holan, Leona Reisterer and Mary Polloway. All are members of our club. Jeanette Miner described the lovely clothes ranging from sportswear to the height of fashions in dresses and coats. A $5 gift certificate from Mar-Nels was won by Nat Bootsma.

Next months executive meeting will be held at the home of Carol Gillis, December 5th. The regular Christmas meeting will be held December 11th in the Cardium Room. There will be a gift exchange.

Proudly introducing

Another Alberta Junior Citizen of the Centennial Year!

GLENNA HORVATH, Drayton Valley

Glenna Horvath, aged 15, saved her five brothers and sisters from death when fire destroyed their home. Glenna was babysitting the younger children when she discovered the fire. The ceiling of the children's room was ablaze. Glenna immediately woke the children and began hustling them outside. Half asleep, they kept trying to go back into the bedroom. Helped by Rex, the family dog, who led some of the children by the arm, Glenna finally got them all to safety.

We congratulate Glenna Horvath and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. Our special thanks to Ronald Smith, Editor of the Western Review and to Glenna's nominator, Mrs. Carol Shiek of Drayton Valley.

November Food Outlook

OTTAWA--Influence of the seasonal abundance of many food items is apparent in the November food forecast prepared by the Economics Branch of the Canada Department of Agriculture.

Eggs: Egg prices will be seasonally lower because production is increasing. Mediums will remain the best value.

Chicken: Broiler chicken prices will be steady.

Turkey: Turkey prices could stengthen slightly as supplies are lower.

Beef: With supplies relatively smaller and a continued firm domestic deman, prices in the immediate future are expected to remain strong.

Pork: With the usual heavy supplies at this season, prices may show some weakness in the next month.

Potatoes: Prices are still low but firming up.

Apples: Prices are lower than last year in Ontario and much lower in Quebec. In the West, prices are higher than last year.

Fresh Fruit: The demand is very strong and most prices are above those of last year especially for Bartlett pears.

Fresh Vegetables: Cabbage is readily available at lower prices than a year ago, carrots and celery are dearer, onions and rutabagas about the same.

Christmas Can't be Far Behind

Over 3,000,000 boxes of Japanese mandarin oranges are headed for Canada. The first shipment of this traditional Christmas fruit is due to arrive in Vancouver November 21, aboard the SS Arizona. The Japanese oranges, which are only available at this time of year, attain their full peak of perfection on the sunny slopes of Mount Fuji. Another bumper crop is being harvested this year. Here the Japanese oranges are picked and then loaded on ship for transporting to Canada.

Rebels Lose Exhibition Games

The curtain raised on the 1967-68 edition of the Drayton Valley Rebels last weekend. The Rebels opened their exhibition season last Saturday evening by entertaining Stony Plain and by hosting the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology in a Sunday afternoon game.

The Rebs did not get off on a winning note as they bowed to the Eagles 6-3 on Saturday and were defeated 9-3 by N.A.I.T. on Sunday. Saturday's game was a rugged hard-hitting affair while Sunday's fixture featured a faster, free-wheeling brand of hockey highlighted by the crisp passing attack of the NAIT team.

The Eagles led 2-0 at the end of the first period and were ahead 4-2 after two sessions. The Stony Plain scorers and Lou Stupor, Brian McLeod, Jim Kulak and Ken Sieben with singles. For the green clad Rebs it was Wayne Gording, Garry Pankewicz and Jim Dunn.

On Sunday the NAIT boys struck early and never looked back. They led 4-1 after one period of play, and were ahead 7-1 after the second. Scoring for the college team were Art Barry and John Zakatik with two goals each while Dennis MacMillan, John Shrum, Wayne Reimmer, Gary Leskow and Dan Pruss got the singles. Frank Novosel, Wayne Garding and Dave Boulter scored for Drayton Valley.

Saturday night, November 18th will feature the All Star game in Stettler with the champion Stettler Imperials going against the League All-Stars. Five Rebels will play for the All-Stars, they are Alvin Hopfe, Dave Boulter, Doug Hall, Jim Dunn and Frank Novosel.

The North Central Alberta Intermediate "B" Hockey League officially opens next Tuesday evening, November 21st with the Rebels hosting the Wetaskiwin Colonels at the Centennial Civic Centre. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

CHAMBER EXECUTIVE MEETS THURSDAY

A meeting of the executive of the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce will be held at noon on Thursday, November 16th in the Jade Cafe.

Local Boxers On Edmonton Fight Card

Unexpectedly, four boxers were invited to participate in a boxing card at the South Side Legion in Edmonton last Friday night. Although they dropped decisions to more experienced boxers, all of them gave a very creditable account of themselves.

One of them, John Teeter, 149 lbs., came very close to winning his bout with Loren Duncan, 155 lbs., in the evening's most exciting bout. Since a rematch between these two is only natural, and promises to be a real battle, they will be featured on Friday night's card in the Drayton Valley Elk's Hall.

The other boxers who participated in Edmonton, Walter Mastre, Bert Duperron, and Danny Brown, will also be boxing on November 17th, but all have drawn different opponents. Fight time is at 8:00 p.m.

Power Project Expands

Construction of a massive spillway at the Big Bend power project at Brazeau should be underway by spring and completed in 1969.

The concrete spillway, which resembles a huge tapering trough, will have two steel gates about 50 feet high and 30 feet wide to replace the two 19-foot elliptical conduits that have been used to release water from the Brazeau Dam to the long canal ending at the Big Bend plant.

The conduits were designed as temporary measures to be used until the plant was under full operation, according to Calgary Power Ltd. officials.

The new spillway, approximately 75 feet wide, would require removal of a million cubic yards of dirt and about 200,000 cubic yards of rock, said one official.

WATER FLOW

About 65,000 cubic feet of water per second could be released through the spillway, although it is unlikely more than 10,000 would be.

One official said that amount of water would be released only in circumstance of extreme flood, when the vast reservoir could refill at a sim-

This summer, being relatively dry, hardly any water was released from the reservoir which provides the driving force for the Big Bend plant.

FLOOD CONTROL

The spillway is designed mainly for flood control, since a minimal amount of water is required to run the two huge generators at the Big Bend plant.

With both working at peak load, 460,000 horsepower can be produced from the plant, which was completed this spring. It operates now as a peak-load plant, cutting into the grid served by the Wabamun plant during periods when unusually high amounts of power are required.

Also, each plant serves as a complete stand-by unit for the other in case of major breakdown or maintenance shutdown. -Edmonton Journal

Have you ever wondered....

. . . how an English-speaking Alberta producer communicates with a French-speaking Quebec customer?

It's easy. He merely asks the bilingual staff of the Government of Alberta office in Montreal to interpret for him. In addition to breaching the language barrier, the Montreal representative of the Industrial Development Branch, Alberta Department of Industry and Development, assists in seeking out markets for Alberta products all over eastern Canada, from Ontario to the Maritimes. They also help visitors from home enjoy their stay in "la belle province" and provide premises where industrial commissioners and representatives from Alberta cities and towns can conduct business. These same services are available in the southern California area from the Government of Alberta office in Los Angeles.

. . . what is meant by the phrase "living history"?

Living history is the story of the past as told by the men who lived it. Alberta's history is brought to life by the writings of the men who actually explored and developed our province. Their first-hand accounts tell of the establishment of law and order in the wilderness, of the beginnings of agriculture, industry and government.

You can read the stories these men have to tell, in their own words, in the Alberta Provincial Library in the Legislative Building. This collection of Western Canadiana describing Alberta's formative years is supplemented by documents which trace the province's history since inauguration. The lives of the pioneers are recorded in the file of Alberta newspapers which have existed since 1906 and which is virtually complete. The story of government in Canada and in Alberta is traced through the complete file of federal and provincial documents, including all issues of the Alberta Gazette, and the debates and journals of the Canadian House of Commons and the Senate. The Alberta Provincial Library is a comprehensive reference and research centre and all books, documents and other materials are available for public use on the premises.

. . . how to give an antibiotic to a bee?

Mix it with icing sugar and dust it into the colony. The bees' habit of passing food from one to the other will ensure that each bee gets his share of the treatment. That's the advice given to Alberta apiarists by the Agriculture Branch of the Plant Industry Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. The recommendation of methods of disease control is just one of the personal services the Branch provides to the province's bee keepers. It also assists in solving management problems, keeps apiarists aware of new developments and trends in techniques through regular news letters and personal visits. Agricultural personnel make regular inspections of all bee colonies in Alberta and offer expert advice on specific problems.

. . . how the efficiency of a community's water supply is assured before the pipes are laid?

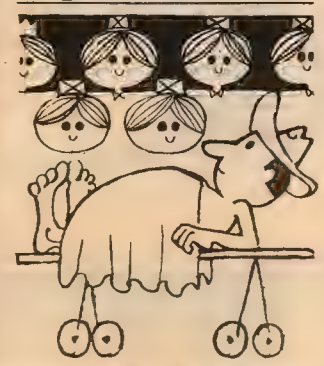
Discovering that a water supply system isn't adequate for a community's needs, AFTER the system is installed, is an expensive mistake. To assist municipalities in avoiding this error, design plans for all new and extended water systems must be submitted, for review and assessment, to the Environmental Health Division of the Alberta Department of Health.

This method assures that the finished system will deliver a continuous supply of wholesome water at an adequate rate . . . and does it while the plans are still in the design stage. Water supply is just one of the areas in which this division contributes to the health of Albertans. It also formulates regulations and carries out a preventive maintenance program in the fields of air and water pollution, swimming pools, sewage systems, food processing plants, plumbing inspection and industrial radiation hazards. In addition, the Environmental Health Division provides an inspection service to those areas of the province not served by local health agencies, and a consultative service to Health Units and City Boards of Health.

. . . if there is a challenge left for modern youth to face?

In Alberta there is, and it lies in one of the most rewarding of all areas of service, in working with people who want to improve their own lot in life. This is the challenge offered to members of the Alberta Service Corps, a Division of the Alberta Department of Youth, formed of University and College students who want to share in the development of the human resources of our province. Volunteers are trained and assigned to areas in which they are interested, in which they are needed, and where their particular abilities can best be used. This may be with the mentally ill, on Indian reservations, in blighted urban areas, with migrant or seasonal laborers, or with a medical corps, providing a health program in remote communities. The pay is not great. Each member of the Alberta Service Corps receives a living allowance during his term of service, as well as a bursary on returning to school. The greatest reward lies in the satisfaction of knowing they have served their fellow man.

. . . what is the source of trained technical staff for Alberta's smaller hospitals?



Whatever its size or location, a hospital requires X-ray and laboratory services to operate efficiently and these services must be performed by trained technical workers. The need for these people is great and, to meet it, the Alberta Department of Health operates the Laboratory and X-ray School in Edmonton. Here, a seven-month course equips graduates to carry out a number of procedures in both laboratory and X-ray fields and to perform the technical work necessary in a rural hospital.

There is no charge for instruction and students receive a monthly allowance of $75, but entrance qualifications are high and each graduate is required to spend at least one year in the Alberta rural hospital field working as a hospital technician. This assures a constant supply of trained technical workers to render a reliable and efficient service to rural hospitals in the laboratory and X-ray fields.

Drayton Valley Packers Attend Edmonton Supper

The Edmonton Huskie Athletic Association who sponsor Bantam Football in Edmonton and District held a Father and Son Banquet Monday evening to close out the 1967 Bantam Football season. The Banquet was held in the Polish Hall in Edmonton and was attended by some 750 persons. Thirty persons from Drayton Valley, players on the Packers Football team along with their fathers and coaches of the team were in attendance at the function.

Among the head table guest speakers were Father Athol Murray of Notre Dame College in Wilcox, Saskatchewan and Smokey Joe Spencer, line coach of the Edmonton Eskimos. Smokey Joe was brief. He was glad to be with the boys and he was sorry that the Eskimos lost in Regina. Father Murray on the other hand gave a dynamic talk as he is so capable of doing. He sang the praises of Ron Lancaster, the Saskatchewan Rough Riders and of John Diefenbaker. He called for a united Canada; one great nation under God, and he deplored socialism and separatism as the most dangerous movements of our times.

When all was said and done, it was a fine banquet, one that was thoroughly enjoyed by each and every one in attendance. It was a most fitting way to close out an excellent football season.

Have you ever heard the man of the house wonder aloud what you've been doing all day?

A U.S. study gives a detailed report on how women spend their week days. It must assume Sunday is duty free. So in six days a farm woman works 54 hours, sleeps 52 hours, gives 2½ hours to the community, uses 11½ hours for personal uses, and has 21 hours to sew, read and talk on the phone. Her housework breaks down to 11 hours for meal making, 6½ hours for dishes, 8½ hours for housecleaning, 10 hours for laundry, 4 hours for family care and 5 hours marketing and record keeping. She spends 6 hours on outdoor work and 3 hours on miscellaneous jobs.

Her sister in town has things a bit easier. She works 48 hours out of 6 days, sleeps 50½ hours, gives 3½ hours to the community, and has 39 hours for other pursuits. The number of hours spent on various kinds of housework were similar to those of the lady on the farm.

By interesting contrast the working mother spends her six days in altogether different time allocation. She works 69 hours, 41 on the job and 24½ at home. She sleeps 47 hours, gives just over an hour to the community and has 26 hours for other activities. Of the time the working mother spends housekeeping, nearly half goes for meals and dishwashing, two fifths for cleaning and clothes care.

The working mothers in the study had no children under ten years of age. They indicated that if they did have more time for housekeeping they would spend it on food preparation rather than cleaning and care of clothes.

The study observes that a homemaker must not compare her output to that of a woman in a different stage of the family cycle, e.g. Mothers of small children must not be discouraged if they can't accomplish as much as those with older children.

Working mothers must select a few family satisfactions which take precedence over all others and eliminate without apology, those things they don't have time to do.

Children of working mothers are often found to become independent at an earlier age. Not only do they develop skills of their own but they have more chance to exercise judgement and make choices. The "running wild" concept is not generally applicable.

When someone asks you what you did all day, they really don't want to know. The shock would finish them off.

Tests Suggested for Parasites in Cattle

An examination for the presence of worm eggs in cattle manure should be carried out at least once a year, says Dr. E. W. Gilchrist of the Veterinary Services Division.

He points out that although a light worm infestation may not give rise to any outward signs, it can still be a drain on an animal's blood and vitality. Such a drain is bound to affect weight gains to some extent. Similarly, a fairly heavy infestation can have a marked effect on gains and feed efficiency without being noticed by a cattle owner. A really serious worm infestation can cause an animal to become sick and die.

Although it is generally assumed that the economic loss from cattle with internal parasites is in direct proportion to the number of worms, this fact is not entirely true, according to Dr. Gilchrist. He explains that there are over twenty species of worms that can infect cattle, and that some are more damaging than others. It is easy to imagine that a varied number and species of worms in different parts of an animal's body will produce different effects. The balance that exists between cattle and worm infestations can easily swing in favor of either the host or the parasites, says Dr. Gilchrist.

Under normal conditions when cattle are not showing signs of sickness, Dr. Gilchrist recommends collecting a composite sample of manure at least once a year. This sample should be made up of smaller samples taken from four or five animals picked at random from the herd. It should be submitted to a veterinarian or the Veterinary Services Laboratory in Lethbridge or Edmonton. If internal parasites are found, the veterinarian will recommend treatment for the type of worms present and outline a control program to prevent re-infection of the herd.
